Subject: New bibliography website re electrically heated cigarette smoking system

Dear Colleagues,

I would like to let you know that PM USA Inc. have launched a new website www.ehcass-science.com. The purpose of this website is to bring together the references to published or publicly presented scientific information concerning the Electrically Heated Smoking System (EHCSS), sold under the trademark Accord (R) Smoking System in the United States, and to share them with scientists and public health professionals.

The website contains two bibliographies of materials published or publicly presented by either Philip Morris USA Inc. or others:

- one is a comprehensive, but not all-inclusive list of the scientific literature on or related to the EHCSS;
- the second lists selected scientific guidelines, standards and methods that relate to the assessment of the EHCSS.

Through this website, we hope to stimulate scientific dialogue and facilitate examination by the scientific and public health community of the published or publicly presented scientific information related to the EHCSS.

Please let us know if you have any questions or comments.

With regards,

Roger Walk
